- Intimate Partner and Sexual Violence is recognized as a preventable public health issue;
- Women and men work together to promote healthy and safe attitudes and beliefs about sexuality and intimate relationships;
- Social norms and cultural systems, both formal and informal, that tolerate violence will be challenged;
- Those who witness violence are empowered to speak out;
- The root causes of violence, in our society are addressed;

- The importance of raising the status of women and girls is acknowledged while simultaneously addressing the roots of male violence; and,
- Emerging social norms and cultural systems reflect a commitment to healthy relationships.
